Irrigation Company Urges Water Bond Aid

STOCKHOLDER SUPPORT IS REQUESTED

Other Indorsements of Issue Come in From All Over County
MRS. BRYANT IN PLEA
Many Talks Scheduled For Next Few Days On Plan's Behalf

The Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company today swung its whole-hearted support into the campaign on behalf of the county water program.

The board of directors of the concern will urge every stockholder to vote for the $6,620,000 bond issue Oct. 4, which will help finance the water conservation and flood control project.

At a meeting in the company's office at Orange this morning, the directors drafted a program for sending a letter to every stockholder, supporting the water bonds and advocating their passage at the election. The letter will point to the vital need of conserving water and protecting the county from flood damage.

More Indorsements

The motion for circulating the stockholders was made by Director C. A. Palmer and seconded by Director Dion L. Gardner.

As the final week of the campaign approached, indorsements for the program flooded into the flood control information bureau here today, while at the same time arrangements were being perfected for a county-wide "minute man" speakers' drive.

Indorsements came in from S. W. Stanley, Tustin rancher; J. E. Lewis, superintendent of the Yorba Linda Water company; C. W. Morris, director in the Yorba Linda Citrus association; E. H. Darling, Garden Grove pharmacist; E. R. Schneider, Garden Grove merchant; and Lew H. Wallace, Newport Beach business man. Mrs. Susanna Bixby Bryant, of Rancho Santa Ana, reaffirmed her indorsement of the program.

Meetings Tonight

One of the most important water meetings scheduled for today is at the Ocean View school house at 7:30 p. m. Murray N. Thompson, county flood control engineer, and H. C. Kellogg, Garden Grove rancher, will speak on behalf of the water program.

Other meetings scheduled for today are at the Yorba Linda chamber of commerce, where Mr. Kellogg will speak; a meeting of the Newport Beach cooperative or-

'HOT CARGO' G.O.P.'S FORM PLEA LOSES LOCAL UNIT

U. S. Arbitrator Denies 'Spirit of '76' Group Union Rehearing On Handling Order

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28. (AP)—Declaring the longshoremen had failed to show sufficient basis for rehearing of the "hot" cargo controversy, Federal Arbitrator M. C. Sloss today denied the labor union's plea for reconsideration.

Mr. Sloss' denial was made public in a formal statement reading: "Following the award made Sept. 27, 1935, relative to controversies affecting the handling of 'hot cargo,' representatives of the Pacific coast district, I. L. A., asked for a rehearing on the decision.

"The meeting was held this morning. Representatives and attorneys of both sides were present. At this meeting counsel for the I. L. A. argued that there should be a rehearing for further consideration of certain matters involved.

"The application was opposed by counsel for the employers.

"The arbitrator concluded that no ground had been shown for rehearing the matter and he accordingly denied the application for rehearing."

There were 25 vessels partially or wholly wharf-bound because of the "unfair" cargo dispute. On some of the docks ships were idle because the longshoremen would not handle the disputed cargo; at others, because "eligible" stevedores were unavailable.

Mr. Sloss had ruled that longshoremen must handle "hot cargo," which is that previously handled by non-union workers.

ARMY TO DO FLOOD WORK, NOT WPA

Cotton Asserts Latter To Be Disbursing Agency Only
SWITCH EXPLAINED
Tells Information On U. S. Aid Given Him By McLaughlin

Absolute denial of reports that army engineers would not supervise the work on Orange county's $12,994,000 flood control and water project was made last night by Hamilton H. Cotton, San Clemente Democratic leader.

Mr. Cotton told newspapermen that despite the fact that funds for the project are coming from the Works Progress administration instead of the Public Works administration, army engineers will have charge of the construction of dams and channels.

"As long as the federal government is supplying the money and it was army engineers who approved the project, they certainly are the ones to complete the job," he said. Mr. Cotton indicated that the WPA would act merely as a disbursing agency.

The switch from PWA to WPA was necessary, said Mr. Cotton, because the Public Works administration in California did not have sufficient funds on hand for the project which is regarded as vitally necessary to the development of the county.

Word from McLaughlin

Following communications with authorities in Washington when they were assured of the need for the flood control program, Mr. Cotton called Frank Y. McLaughlin, WPA administrator in California, who has already pledged his support to the project. Mr. McLaughlin informed Mr. Cotton that the WPA has sufficient funds for the project and that the allocation would be made.

The rate of pay for the job is still undecided, Mr. Cotton said. Since PWA will not administer the project through contracts, he said, it is not probable that prevailing union wages will be paid. He indicated that under the WPA setup work will be done on a force account, with the government hiring the men on a daily wage basis. Wage schedules under WPA have not yet been established, he added.

YOUNG SLAYER LOST ESTATE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28. (AP)—As authorities moved today to bring Leroy Drake, 19-year-old student of chemistry and astronomy, to a quick trial on charges he murdered his elderly uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinheuer, police disclosed his alleged admission he poisoned them to gain possession of their estates made a mockery of the crime.

Detective Lieutenant F. S. Stone, who charged the youth confessed to him that greed was the motive for the crime, said his investigation disclosed Steinheuer disinherited young Drake from participation in the estates only three days after young Drake was arrested for driving a car without the owner's consent.

How About It, Chief?

Editor, The Journal:

Yesterday you printed the news that our police department has started a new service of offering drivers to people who suddenly find themselves unable to pilot their own cars. I understand that all that is necessary is to call the department and an officer will escort any incapacitated person to his home.

Now I have never been in this condition myself and do not expect to avail myself of the service, but I realize that it will be very convenient to anyone who becomes ill while downtown.

Poker Party Nets $1.50 For Local Community Chest

Glenn Everman, campaign director for the Community Chest, was both pleased and surprised when a young man walked into his office today and presented him with $1.50. He was pleased because money, in amounts ranging from one cent on up, is always welcome. He was surprised when he learned the source of the contribution.

It seems that there was a gentlemanly poker game in town last night. The "jack-pots" weren't big, but they were numerous. Out of each "jack-pot," a nickel was set aside to build up a fund for the Community Chest. The total taken from the "jack-pots" was $1.50.

Chief Geneva Delegate Returns to Rome As League Is Warned

GENEVA, Sept. 28. (AP)—Baron Pompeo Aloisi, chief of the Italian delegation to the League of Nations, left today for Rome.

Aloisi was accompanied by Guido Rocco, of the Italian foreign office, and at the hotel where the Italian delegation has its headquarters it was said the remaining delegates planned to leave for Rome either this evening or tomorrow.

Creates Sensation

The news created a sensation because it had been deduced from today's Italian cabinet communiqué that the delegation would stay here until the league begins to discuss or to decide upon sanctions as a result of the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel.

Nothing was immediately known as to whether—or when—Aloisi will return to Geneva.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28. (AP)—While about 250 unemployed men and women milled about the Works Progress administration building at 12th and Santee streets here today, a committee of six from the crowd went in and made wage demands on Col. Donald H. Connolly, WPA director in Los Angeles.

Numerous officers of the police "red squad" stood at the fringe of the crowd. No violence was reported, however, and the crowd dispersed after the committee's interview with Col. Connolly ended.

AAA Great Expression Of Human Rights, Says President
TALKS IN NEBRASKA
Law Aids Agriculturists First Time in History, Asserts Executive

FREMONT, Neb., Sept. 28. (AP)—President Roosevelt told a farm audience today the Agricultural Adjustment act is giving farmers "really a chance for the first time in this generation."

He declared the effort to aid the agriculturists was "the true function of government under our constitution."

Good Old Democracy

Speaking in the heart of the grain belt while mid-way to the coast on his W. J. tour, Mr. Roosevelt called the AAA economically and constitutionally, "democracy in the good old sense of the word."

"The government's part in this program is merely to supply the unifying element that the farmers themselves, in their past efforts found so essential to success," he declared.

"That, it seems to me, is the true function of government under our constitution—to promote the general welfare, not by interfering unduly with individual liberties, but by bringing to the aid of the individual those powers of government which are essential to assure the continuance of the inalienable rights which the constitution is intended to guarantee."

Constitutionality of the act has been challenged in the courts.

Increased Income

Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the income of the farmers has been increased by $5,300,000,000 over the 1932 level. He said many factors were involved in the readjustment.

"Our monetary policy was one," he said. "The drought was another. Increased demand for products caused by the economic revival was another and the operations of our Agricultural Administration."

LOCAL PIONEER WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Dora Spangler, pioneer resident of Santa Ana, passed away shortly before noon today in her home, 638 North Birch street. She had been confined to her bed for several weeks as the result of an illness.

His first business venture in Santa Ana was the establishment of a blacksmith and harness shop at Sycamore and Third streets. Later he purchased the English property which was situated on Sycamore street between Second and Third streets.

Mrs. Spangler is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Flake Smith, 2409 Heliotrope drive, and one son, George Spangler, 623 North Ross street. The body has been taken to the Smith and Tutill mortuary pending funeral arrangements.

The reports were the first to come out of the areas following movement of the storm northward to a point where it threatened late today to strike the lower Florida east coast in the vicinity of Miami.

Residents all along the lower Florida coast from West Palm Beach southward to Key West were warned to prepare for probable hurricane winds and to take the utmost precautions.

STATE TO ALLOW MOONEY'S USE OF 1000 BACKERS' DOCUMENTS

PAPERS HAVE BEEN KEPT 19 YEARS

Suppressed Information Now Available in 1916 Bombing Hearing

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28. (AP)—Nearly 1000 documents which adherents of Thomas J. Mooney claimed the state has suppressed for 19 years will be turned over to his counsel Monday. Assistant State Attorney General William Cleary promised today.

They consist primarily of letters and statements of witnesses taken before Mooney's trial for the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness day bombing which killed 10 people.

Clearing pointed out the state was under no obligation to turn over the papers but wanted to be fair. George T. Davis of Mooney's counsel commented the defense had at various times petitioned the court for each one.

Warren K. Billings, who like Mooney is under life sentence for the bombing, was on the stand when the hearing adjourned yesterday.

His testimony continued to bolster Mooney's claim that he was "framed," but, under questioning by Cleary, veered more toward his own actions on the day of the explosion that cost 10 persons their lives.

Billings, freely admitting he was a labor "sympathizer," had related that he was engaged in squinting a paint remover on automobiles parked in downtown San Francisco at the time of the explosion. At that time, he explained, automobile workers were on strike here.

S. A. ELKS TEAM EDGED OUT Group Loses By .002 Points

Losing by two-thousandths of a point, Santa Ana Elks' crack ritualistic team saw the state championship cup awarded to Glendale's team at this morning's session of the state convention of Elks in Santa Monica.

The Glendale contingent took the prize with a score of 96.6344 Santa Ana holding a 96.6324 record. The decision was received late yesterday afternoon when the three calculators met in special session at Santa Monica to recompute their figures, which had tied the teams. Announcement of the award was kept secret until this morning at the convulse.

Serving on the state ritualistic committee were Harry Hickman, San Bernardino; Ed Clark, Glendale, and R. E. Walker, Santa Ana.

"It was one of the closest contests ever held in the history of the state Elks association," Mr. Walker said today. The cup will be Glendale's until next year, when it will be awarded to the 1936 winner. If Glendale should win the cup three successive years, it would become the lodge's permanent possession.

The Glendale team will compete in the national championship in Los Angeles July, 1936. Monterey took a score of 96.2352, Vallejo 95.7722, and Bakersfield 93.8509, Mr. Walker said.

MORE ABOUT ITALY

"Grave Events" Feared Shortly thereafter, sitting as a committee of 13 the league council decided in private session to submit to the Italian government Ethiopia's request for the dispatch of neutral observers to the troubled frontiers of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Before they parted, the statesmen were warned by Eduard Benes, president of the assembly, that "grave events may still occur in a conflict which the council has not yet been able to settle."

"We separate with the hope that the path of conciliation is not yet closed," said Benes, "and that a peaceful settlement still can be reached."

Diplomats viewed the situation as extremely serious and believed Premier Mussolini remains determined on a military campaign in Ethiopia. The belief obtained was that the powers would find naval sanctions easier to work out than an economic boycott.

MORE ABOUT ROOSEVELT

After receding asserted improvements in the condition of agriculture, the President pointed to the "longer future," prevention of soil erosion and floods, encouragement of reforestation and removal of unprofitable sub-marginal lands from production.

"I like to think," he said, "that Agricultural Adjustment is an expression in concrete form of the human rights those farmers and patriots sought to win when they stood at the bridge at Concord, when they proclaimed the Declaration of Independence, and when they perpetuated these ideals by the adoption of the constitution."

"Methods and machinery change, but principles go on, and I have faith that, no matter what attempts may demand to tear it down, the principle of farm equality expressed by agricultural adjustment will not die."

BOND OPPOSERS ISSUE ITEM

The following is a news article given out Friday by the local office of the Associated Water Users of Orange County.

There is a serious question as to the legal right of the county supervisors to expend public funds in promoting support for the $6,620,000 flood bonds, declared A. F. LeGaye, campaign director for the Associated Water Users of Orange County, in a statement today commenting upon a ruling of Attorney General U. S. Webb which was cited by bond proponents as approving expenditures for flood bond advertisements and campaign operations. LeGaye said:

"There can be no question that the supervisors are overstepping their moral rights and all propriety in using the money of a taxpayer to promote a program that the taxpayer may regard as against his interests. It is an inexcusable imposition upon the taxpayer who opposes the bonds; a complete disregard by the supervisors of the fact that they are elected to represent all the people, not just a fraction."

"It is our opinion that this unethical action of the board also actually oversteps the legal sanction for expending public money to disseminate facts. Attorney General Webb has ruled that an expenditure for such purpose is legal, but we have serious doubt that the action of the supervisors comes within his ruling."

"The supervisors have not confined their advertising to a mere impartial statement of facts. Although it is easy to see that they have tried to preserve the color of legality in the published matter, by not actually instructing the voter to 'vote yes,' the whole theme of their statements, as even a casual reader can see, implies such a plea to the voter."

"And if their purpose is veiled, even so thinly, in their advertisements, they have actually come out, unmasked, with placards in their campaign headquarters,

ORANGE FIRM WINS WIRE CONTRACT

The Anaconda Wire and Cable company of Orange was awarded a $32,246 contract for copper conductor yesterday by the board of directors of the Metropolitan Water district. The conductor will be used on part of the transmission line to supply Hoover dam power for Metropolitan Water district pumping plants on the Colorado river aqueduct.

Ten miles of copper conductor will be used, on the portion of the line crossing alkaline areas on the desert, copper having a superior resistance to alkali.

Other contracts swelling the total to $1,456,108 were awarded by the directors yesterday. The Aluminum Company of America was given a $814,316 contract for furnishing aluminum conductor. Fritz Ziebarth was given a contract for constructing the line, for $407,246. The Pacific Coast Steel company gained a contract for furnishing steel towers at a cost of $402,300.

RELIEF SETUP SAVED HERE

The State Emergency Relief administration has come to the aid of the work relief program in Orange county by continuing on the job six SERRA workers who are assisting the National Reemployment service.

Although other SERRA projects have been definitely ended, these workers will be allowed to remain on the job until Oct. 10. By that time it is hoped that the Works Progress administration will be in operation so that there will be no gap in the work.

Winds Increasing The continuation came Thursday afternoon to Terrence Halloran, SERRA director here, from state headquarters at San Francisco.

Without the assistance of the SERRA workers, the NRS would have been faced with a staggering situation, for it must clear all workers who gets jobs with the WPA.

Ebenezer observatory at Havana said the storm left Cuba between the towns of Cuiabarian and Sagua La Grande.

Gordon E. Dunn, federal meteorologist at Jacksonville, said he was warning persons in the area of Lake Okeechobee to be ready to evacuate on short notice.

Winds Increasing Barometers were falling and winds increasing in the coral islands which form the string of keys from south of Miami to Key West. At Key West, where residents are storm-wise, everything was being boarded up and inhabitants planned to stay indoors until the winds had passed.

Tavernier, struck hard by the Labor day hurricane, reported an east-northeast wind of 35 miles an hour and a barometer at 29.60.

Snake creek, where many World war veterans were killed in the last storm, reported early this morning a barometer of 29.62 and a north wind of 25 miles an hour.

75-Mile Winds The islands of the Western Bahamas group should experience strong gales, the weather bureau said, and Bimini probably will have hurricane winds of 75 miles an hour or more.

At Jacksonville coast guard divisional headquarters, two boats would be sent from the base at Fort Lauderdale to aid in removing persons from the Keys.

Fast boats were sent into the Keys from Miami. A fleet of fast trucks were bringing more than 600 FERA workers from the Snake creek and upper Matcumbe area here.

WILL BAN CHILD FARM LABOR

There will be no Mexican child labor this year in Orange county fields if Lucas Lucio, local representative of the Mexican consul, can prevent it. Mr. Lucio said today that the county school superintendent's office has pledged cooperation in a move to prevent taking of Mexican school children into the fields to work.

In the past, he said, it has been customary for Mexican families to take their children to work with them. However, a recent award by the county wage arbitration board specified that this custom should end, Mr. Lucio said. He also reported that Japanese growers have agreed to cooperate in the movement. No child less than 16 years of age will be eligible to work, he said.

In cases where children under this age do work, Mr. Lucio said that he would contact their parents and iron out the situation.

The new rule will not apply to walnut pickers, however. Mr. Lucio said that walnut growers were not affected by the recent arbitration board ruling. Also, he explained, whole families camp in the grove, often far from their schools, and it would be almost impossible for parents to transport their children to and from school.

In her letter to Chairman John Mitchell of the board of supervisors, Mrs. Susanna Bixby Bryant recalled the on May 4, 1931, when she endorsed the Elliott plan for water conservation, no one anticipated government aid, but that now federal assistance in the amount of $6,374,000 has been pledged. She said that the water project will provide work for 5000 people for a year. If these men continued to be unemployed, the welfare burden on the taxpayers would continue, she wrote.

"Employment in Sight" "For the first time during the depression years there is steady employment in sight for them, and a good share of the tax money, for which we are all assessed, can be doing double duty. To what better use could our money be put?" she asked.

Commenting on the water program, she wrote: "It is the only plan that can secure government aid from existing appropriations, and we are being given an outright gift of $6,374,000 from the federal government, which is not to be repaid. With the knowledge that the allocation of federal funds has been made, and mindful of what the immediate benefits will mean, we must not fail to take advantage of this great opportunity to safeguard our future."

Trust in Jehovah with all thy heart, and lean not upon thine own understanding;

In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He will direct thy paths.

Honor Jehovah with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase.

So shall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy vats shall overflow with new wine. Proverbs 3: 5-10.

Albert Eakin Kelly

The Lord is My Rock and My Fortress

PASTOR TO GIVE THE ANSWERS

"If modern youth is puzzled about things that I can help him with," decided the Rev. Dr. A. E. Kelly of the United Presbyterian church, "then I'm going to know it."

Consequently last Sunday, he appealed to young people of his church to send him three questions facing them on the church, the Bible, Christian life, every day Christian living, or related matters, with the promise that he would answer the queries in an evening sermon tomorrow.

It was youth's chance and they deluged him with wonderings about God, religion, and what to do on Sunday.

How About Movies?

"Can a person go to the movies and still be a Christian?" asked one of the young church members. "How do you go about getting somebody to church who says he can't?" was another query.

Taking a slant at bigger problems, one questioner asked if present-day methods used by local business men, such as price-cutting and certain types of advertising, were Christian and according to the Bible.

"Do you believe the young people of today are hypocrites?" asked one person, and added in parenthesis (a belief common among old folks).

Murmurings of Russia came in the query if religion could be exterminated in any country by teaching the children atheism.

"Should a young man of our church enlist if the United States goes to war?" asked another.

What About Beach?

What it takes to be a Christian worried a number of the young folks. "Was it all right to go to the beach on Sunday?" Was reading the Bible being a Christian? Can you be a Christian and not go to church? Was it all right to dance or go to a show after C. E.?

Could you doubt and still be a real Christian? Was it all right to smoke and be a Christian?

"And, if they had all the tenets of being a Christian straightened for them, one student wondered if it paid to be a Christian."

There are enough topics there for the entire fall season," commented Dr. Kelly on the queries. Sunday, the sermons will begin to answer the questions.

"That a pretty good indication that modern youth is thinking and wondering about the place of God and the church in their lives," the minister said.

SACRED MUSIC TO BE PRESENTED ON ABBEY HOUR

A program of sacred music will be presented by members of the choir of the Grace Lutheran church of Anaheim during the Musical Memory Hour at Melrose Abbey Sunday afternoon.

Miss Elizabeth Hunziker will miss the program with an organ number, "Meditation," closing with "Lowly Before Thee."

Here and There With The Journal's
Rambling County Editor

By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

HAROLD GRAUEL, Costa Mesa C. of C. president, has his foot in a sling.

At least, he's limping. Says that it's a sprained ankle, and due to overexertion at a volleyball game.

We're glad to hear the cause of the injury. Thought at first that he might have stepped in front of one of those low-flying airplanes.

WHILE we're in Costa Mesa, might give a rave or two for the Townsend clubs there. They have three of 'em, and all are busy as bees. Believe it or don't, they have over 400 members, right in that district. I was going to accuse J. H. Walsh, president of club No. 1, of running in kids of 50 and younger on the list, but decided against it—they mean business, there.

Just to prove how busy they are, however, they are sending four delegates to the national convention in Chicago. Most districts of about the same size will be lucky to send one delegate.

AND, Costa Mesa has another improvement. Cross walks at intersections have been repainted. The Lions club, we hear, did the work. A. L. Pinkley, Chas. TeWinkle, Walter Ford, Morris Crawley and Emil Greener did most of the work, with Walter Spicer furnishing coffee and doughnuts for the famished workers.

It's a real improvement. They have also installed crossing signs to protect pedestrians. Everybody'll be safe, from now on. Except from airplanes.

AS FAR as we're concerned, there's no need for "slow" signs or other traffic directors in their community. We've heard about Judge Dodge. It's known, far and wide, that the judge does not like people to go fast. In fact, he insists that they slow down while in his territory.

When they don't slow down, it's just too bad—as five boys found out during the past week. On a single day, he sentenced all five of 'em to jail, all for going over 60.

Cross he wanted to give 'em a chance to think about the perils of fast driving for a few days. They won't have much else to do.

ALSO, we hear lots of good words about Dr. Huston's plan for a bike path at Costa Mesa. He's still trying to get help in clearing off the old right-of-way that the P. E. abandoned alongside Newport boulevard, so kids can pedal without being run over.

Ought to charge 'em all a pedler's license for using the path, when it's finished.

Too, we hear rumors that if the path is successful, that it might be continued clear into Santa Ana. Hope so.

OCEANVIEW is another bustling place. Although their town may merely look like a few buildings on the road to Huntington Beach, we know differently.

They've become "music minded" this fall—they have enough glue clubs and bands and orchestras for a big city.

For instance—they've formed a boys' glue club, a girls' ditto, a P-T-A chorus, school orchestra, a woman's "little orchestra," a community band and the Methodist church orchestra.

Which isn't bad, for a community of 500 souls.

WE IMAGINE that Jim Farquhar, Huntington Beach publisher, is feeling sorta proud.

Because another Farquhar's following in his old man's footsteps. Son George's name comes out as night sports editor of The Daily Californian, publication of the University of California at Berkeley.

Newsing seems to run in the family.

What with football season starting off with a bang, loyal Laguna mustn't forget to give three rousing cheers for the new project at the polls on Oct. 14. Yes! Yes! Yes! X! X! X! The Pierites won the flip over the Breakwaters and chose the western goal. There's the whistle, and here goes the kick-off! Captain Portus has the ball and is going through the lines for a touchdown. No! He's down on the big rocks! The team is going into a huddle at the polls. Now they're on the line of scrimmage again. The ball is snapped. The Breakwaters are tightening up their defenses. Now they're ready to go again.

A fumble! The Breakwaters have the ball. Walt Stein scoots around the left end, out over the reef. What? Another fumble? What? You know about that! Sam Dawson's going to London! It looks like he'd slide all the way to Kansas. No. The Breakwaters were off side. Time out for A. J. Stead to make depth soundings.

Only 30 seconds left to play. The teams are lined up again now. The Pierites headed out to sea. Signals. Captain Portus receives the ball and steps back to pass. Look! There! He's wrapping it up in his petition of a hundred-and-one names and shooting it to—Is it Ickes—or Hopkins? Can't make out the letters from here, so call him Mr. Govt.

Mr. Govt. is running with the ball. He's going to make a touchdown. He's running like $45,000. A touchdown for the Pierites! But it looks like he'll run it out farther. Oh, well, they say it's better fishing out there. There goes the gun. Game's over.

Earl M. Hatheway is back in town again looking as if venison and high altitude agreed with him. He reports that Art Perkins and his brother, Archy, and their 76-year-old dad were other members of the hunting party which journeyed to Lost Meadow, in the High Sierras. Seems they had to hike and horse it the last 12 miles, up to the 8500-foot mark. Archy Perkins bagged a buck, which proves that pretty good shots come from Santa Ana. Anyway, when they finished eating the carcass they came home to get caught up on their spinach.

Ernest Pavner was back in town for a few days this week. He reports about to leave for Tampa, Fla., within the next 10 days, driving with a friend. From there he plans to go to New York to get a close-up slant on the present status of the literary market, and incidentally look up Louis Adamic, if he hasn't gone off on a lecture tour.

Marion Reese's auto-trailer is nearing completion. When finished it will be completely a home job, and a good one too. Mr. Reese claims that if a trailer is balanced and streamlined perfectly, a car has more speed and gets better gasoline mileage. That sounds a bit thick at first telling a car having more speed pulling a trailer than without. But if all conditions are perfect, it is true by test. The idea is there's less air drag on a long surface.

One excellent feature of the trailer that ought to be a law—front and rear windows give a clear vision of the road behind. About the first of the year Mr. and Mrs. Reese are going to throw a few clothes and the dog into the trailer and push off for parts as yet uncharted. Two years behind the wheel, is the plan. Two carefree years of jaunting wherever their fancy leads them. Take a back seat, Mr. Riley! Here come the Reeses!

Police Officer Paul Johnson put a damper on the pugilistic ambitions of a would-be Joe Louis when he dragged a big-fisted gent to jail and locked him up a few nights ago.

In the morning, before Judge Cravath, he boasted of his prowess and insinuated that he was only practicing on some of our local citizens when arrested.

Judge Cravath remonstrated, "If you're half as good a fighter as you say you are, you'd better go out and get paid for it! Because this is getting to cost you $15!"

Coast L-i-n-e-s

By McDONALD WHITE

What with football season starting off with a bang, loyal Laguna mustn't forget to give three rousing cheers for the new project at the polls on Oct. 14. Yes! Yes! Yes! X! X! X! The Pierites won the flip over the Breakwaters and chose the western goal. There's the whistle, and here goes the kick-off! Captain Portus has the ball and is going through the lines for a touchdown. No! He's down on the big rocks! The team is going into a huddle at the polls. Now they're on the line of scrimmage again. The ball is snapped. The Breakwaters are tightening up their defenses. Now they're ready to go again.

A fumble! The Breakwaters have the ball. Walt Stein scoots around the left end, out over the reef. What? Another fumble? What? You know about that! Sam Dawson's going to London! It looks like he'd slide all the way to Kansas. No. The Breakwaters were off side. Time out for A. J. Stead to make depth soundings.

Only 30 seconds left to play. The teams are lined up again now. The Pierites headed out to sea. Signals. Captain Portus receives the ball and steps back to pass. Look! There! He's wrapping it up in his petition of a hundred-and-one names and shooting it to—Is it Ickes—or Hopkins? Can't make out the letters from here, so call him Mr. Govt.

Mr. Govt. is running with the ball. He's going to make a touchdown. He's running like $45,000. A touchdown for the Pierites! But it looks like he'll run it out farther. Oh, well, they say it's better fishing out there. There goes the gun. Game's over.

Earl M. Hatheway is back in town again looking as if venison and high altitude agreed with him. He reports that Art Perkins and his brother, Archy, and their 76-year-old dad were other members of the hunting party which journeyed to Lost Meadow, in the High Sierras. Seems they had to hike and horse it the last 12 miles, up to the 8500-foot mark. Archy Perkins bagged a buck, which proves that pretty good shots come from Santa Ana. Anyway, when they finished eating the carcass they came home to get caught up on their spinach.

Ernest Pavner was back in town for a few days this week. He reports about to leave for Tampa, Fla., within the next 10 days, driving with a friend. From there he plans to go to New York to get a close-up slant on the present status of the literary market, and incidentally look up Louis Adamic, if he hasn't gone off on a lecture tour.

Marion Reese's auto-trailer is nearing completion. When finished it will be completely a home job, and a good one too. Mr. Reese claims that if a trailer is balanced and streamlined perfectly, a car has more speed and gets better gasoline mileage. That sounds a bit thick at first telling a car having more speed pulling a trailer than without. But if all conditions are perfect, it is true by test. The idea is there's less air drag on a long surface.

One excellent feature of the trailer that ought to be a law—front and rear windows give a clear vision of the road behind. About the first of the year Mr. and Mrs. Reese are going to throw a few clothes and the dog into the trailer and push off for parts as yet uncharted. Two years behind the wheel, is the plan. Two carefree years of jaunting wherever their fancy leads them. Take a back seat, Mr. Riley! Here come the Reeses!

Police Officer Paul Johnson put a damper on the pugilistic ambitions of a would-be Joe Louis when he dragged a big-fisted gent to jail and locked him up a few nights ago.

In the morning, before Judge Cravath, he boasted of his prowess and insinuated that he was only practicing on some of our local citizens when arrested.

Judge Cravath remonstrated, "If you're half as good a fighter as you say you are, you'd better go out and get paid for it! Because this is getting to cost you $15!"

MIDWAY CITY.—The Midway City Woman's club heard Mrs. Archibald Edwards, Fullerton, president of the Orange County federation, at their meeting Thursday in the clubhouse.

Decoration of the stage was in charge of Mrs. Paul Severson and Mrs. Dale Braybrooks. Among guests present were Mrs. Albert Rueoff, Springdale, Mrs. Manny Paquette, Westminster, and Mrs. Wayne Kolburn, Barber City.

AFTER IMPRESSIONS OF SAMMY SAINT

THAT PASSING combination that clicked for the winning touchdown, Joy to Youel, was also joy to Santa Ana. . . Captain Erwin Youel, a well padded wingman, looks like the team's best prospect. . . But don't count out Bill Musick, Carroll Joy, Warren (Whatta) Mann or Mac Beall. . . Charlie Robinson will do as a punter when he is given a little better defense. . . Those two ducky wingmen from the Pasadena aggregation sifted through time after time to interrupt Charlie's foot work. . .

The Muir-Tech delegates were lucky to score, but at that when Aker (Hidden) Valley, gangling tackle, intercepted a pass and loomed 53 yarders for a touchdown. . . there was a veritable shalank of supporters clearing his path. . .

MUCH TO LEARN ABOUT SAINT TEAM AS YET

IT'S STILL TOO EARLY to put an estimate on the Saint eleven. . . although they were vastly improved over their first showing with Orange. . . If Bill Foote and Pinky Greene continue to iron out the bumps as fast as they seem to have done in the past week their machine will be a smooth-as-silk affair with plenty of horse-power. The spark of a good stratosphere attack is there; real possibilities for a line-smashing gadget are on hand and the team does not lack fire, fight or finesse.

HOW MANY TIMES HAVE TIGERS WON?

YEP, JUST ONE more river to cross this year for baseball. And despite smart T. R. Alford, who asked us who we thought would win the world's series and then decided to bet against our choice, we're going to have a few things to predict.

It's purely preliminary and may be inverted before game time, but just now we like the chance of Mickey Cochran and his terrible Tigers. In addition to the fact that the squad is more stable, there's another great reason for Detroiters have a chance of winning their first pennant since—quick, Watson! What do you make of this? We just looked it up and found: The Detroit Tigers have NEVER won a world's championship!

That's one for the can-you-believe-it-or-don't-you-care cartoonists, but according to Frank G. Menke's record book—the sports bible—it's true.

The Tigers played the Chicago Cubs in 1907 and 1908, but lost four games to nothing and four games to one. Next year they played Pittsburgh and lost four games to three. They haven't been in a world series since until they dropped a 4-3 decision to the "gas house gang" from St. Louis last year.

The Cubs grabbed those two pennants from the Tigers but haven't connected since, although they have captured the National League gong four times since then.

WHAT ABOUT ALL THOSE REASONS?

ALL RIGHT THEN, back to why the Tigers have a darn good chance. There are four reasons: Eldon Auker, Schoolboy Rowe, Tommy Bridges and General Alvin Crowder. Although they didn't do it last year, these pitchers could clinch the series with a win apiece, according to the indications of their work thus far.

Chicago, too, has some reasons. Five of them are: Charley Root, who may be just a shade too old for the big-time pace; Roy Henshaw, the diminutive ex-Los Angeles Angel; Bill Lee, who has won 20 and lost only 6 games this year; Larry French and the invincible Lou Warneke also a 20-game winner.

Those are two great pitching staffs, but just now it looks like the balance of weight lies with the Detroiters.

CASTILLO HOLDS DADO TO DRAW

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28. (AP)—Speedy Dado, who always pleases the crowd by making a battle of it, had another thriller to his credit today, but the best he could was to draw last night at the American Legion stadium with Young Frankie Castillo, but the decision was unpopular.

OILERS GRAB THIRD GAME AT COLTON

Huntington Beach Hangs Up 4-2 Win in Tenth To Protect Record

An inspired Colton team, behind the 16-strikeout pitching of Vince Alexander, carried Huntington Beach for 10 innings before Joe Rodgers' Oilers ousted the Reds for the third successive time, 4-2, at Colton last night.

Two hits and a brace of glaring outfield errors broke a 2-2 deadlock and wrapped up victory for Huntington Beach in the extra frame, and placed the Oilers in possession to win the Southern California nightball crown on their own lot Tuesday night.

Venn Botts, Colton's ace who was blanked 8-0 and 5-0 in the first two starts, was kept on the sidelines while Alexander, an outfielder, limited the Rodgers' men to eight bingles.

Howard Morning, southpaw, tolled the first five innings for the National league champs, Louie (The Great) Neva finishing.

SERIES DUCATS DRAW MIXUP

CHICAGO, Sept. 28. (AP)—With the celebration of the Cubs' pennant triumph over baseball fans began wondering today about their chances of purchasing tickets for the three world series games with the Tigers to be played at Wrigley field, Oct. 4, 5 and 6.

The banker, lawyer, the man about town, must take his chances along with the individual who just has the price of admission in his pockets, in the scramble for tickets. For Philip K. Wrigley, president-owner of the Cubs, throwing world series traditions to the winds, decided to sell the tickets at the box office only with no preferred list and no mail order accepted.

Starting promptly at 8 o'clock next Tuesday morning, the windows of the box office will be opened and the sale will be on. First come, first served. Each purchaser will be limited to six tickets for the three games. Any minute now, those who want choice locations will be grabbing a camp stool or a cot to take up their long vigil near the box office window, or hire some one to do the job for them.

ANGELS EVEN COAST RACE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28. (AP)—Playing the kind of baseball that swept them to victory in the first half of the split season, the Los Angeles Angels today found themselves tied at two-all in the play-off series with San Francisco, winner of the second half of the season race, for the Coast league baseball championship.

The Angels, playing on their home ground, Wrigley field, for the first time in the series, last night took the fourth game, their second in a row, by the score of 10 to 7. The Seals took the first two games. Four out of seven games decides the championship.

Szabo Wants Mama Man Mountain Barred Monday

It was reported today that Sandro Szabo, the Hungarian wrestling king, who meets Man Mountain Dean in a three falls to a finish mat battle at the Orange County Athletic club Monday night was all for having Mrs. Man Mountain Dean placed under a heavy peace bond or else barred from entering the arena.

Mrs. Dean's performance Monday night during her husband's clash with Paul Boesch and Ivan Mannagoff was such that Szabo declares he won't wrestle unless "something is done about Mrs. Dean."

"She wild woman," said Szabo, "and sure to jump on Szabo too when beat Dean."

Hustling 'Big 4' Hurling Corps Braces Detroit's Series Hopes

(This is the second of a series of stories analyzing the Detroit Tigers.)

By EARL HILLIGAN

DETROIT, Sept. 28. (AP)—Detroit's Tigers, topping the American league pennant race for the second consecutive year, have one of the best balanced pitching staffs in baseball ready for the world series jousts.

In Tommy Bridges, Schoolboy Rowe, Eldon Auker and Alvin Crowder, the hustling Bengals can boast a quartet of hurlers which compares favorably—and many believe it is the best—with any other four tossers in either major league today.

All were slow starting the season—in April, St. appeared Manager Mickey Cochrane's greatest trouble would be with his hurling staff. In July they started to hit their stride, and up to Sept. 18 the four had won a total of 71 games.

Bridges Acquires Control
Slender Tommy Bridges, possessing a terrific fast ball and one of the best curves in baseball, led the staff in the number of games won all season. He was unbeatable when he had control, and only the lack of control keeps him from developing into one of the greatest pitchers of modern baseball.

When his control fails, Bridges has to groove them, with the result that his fast ball often provides the set-up to beat him. This season, however, the slim Tennessee, who weighs just 155 pounds, had control more often than he lacked it.

Auker's offerings float upward to the plate and are difficult to hit squarely. He throws a ball that invites a "pop-up," and Auker's long string of victories is characterized by the number of short, high flies which have been easy outs.

Schoolboy Is Tardy
Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe did not reach top form until August, but since then he has delivered regularly in a way that lifts Manager Cochrane's hopes considerably. The tall right-hander—Auker, Bridges and Crowder also are right-handers—has a "fireball" and a fine change of pace. In addition, Rowe is one of the game and no set-up at the plate for any hurler. In one game this season he hit "five-for-five."

Alvin (General) Crowder is the crafty one of the Detroit staff. The veteran, no longer possessing a fast ball, is credited with knowing as much about batters as any other finger in the game, and he delivered some of his best games when they were needed most by the Tigers—when Detroit climbed into first place at the expense of New York.

Shock Troops Ready
Detroit also has Roxie Lawson, a newcomer who produced shut-outs in his first two starts and has impressed Cochrane with his control in the pinches. Then there are Elton Hoggatt, a left-handed relief hurler, who has saved numerous Tiger games; Joe Sullivan, who won five games early in the season to start the club on its upward climb; and Vic Sorrell, veteran right-handed pitcher, who has come through occasionally, one of his games being a win over the Yankees in the series in which Detroit took the league lead.

Manager Cochrane has been able to work his pitchers in turn, and according to caged old Connie Meyer, "the secret of winning pennants is having pitchers who can go nine innings." Detroit has that kind of flingers and they should be ready for World Series duty.

BRUIN ELEVEN MAULS UTAH, 39 TO 0

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28. (AP)—Storm warnings for the benefit of its Pacific Coast conference opponents were posted by the University of California at Los Angeles football team today.

For the Bruins displayed a powerful offense here at Memorial Coliseum last night to 15,000 persons as they paraded to a 39 to 0 victory over one of the Rocky mountain conference's strongest teams, Utah State.

Spaulding's eleven, after piling up 33 points in the first half, put its light under the bushel.

A blond halfback named Charles Cheshire touched off the fireworks when the game was less than three minutes old with a 14-yard run to a touchdown and paved the way for the next two in the opening period before Coach Spaulding hardly had time to get him off the field.

CARDOZA FACES BEATING HERE

Fresh from a win over Johnny Aguirre, national bantamweight titleholder, Henry Geiturrez, today was made a favorite to defeat Lupe Cardoza, Ontario's sensational runner-up for the championship, when they meet Thursday night at the Orange County Athletic club.

Cardoza and Geiturrez battle it out in a four-rounder that tops an all-star program planned by Promoter Sam Sampson for the third amateur fight show under his personal supervision.

POMONA PUTS 18-6 DEFEAT ON LOCALS

Pass From McCarter To Wilson Nets Score For Santa Anans

One of the classiest eleven ever assembled at Pomona college, making the breaks and knowing how to take advantage of them, buried Santa Ana's Dons, 18-6, in a lively non-conference tussle at the Municipal bowl last night.

The score, like that of many football games, is deceiving. A minor "break" or two in favor of the junior collegians might have resulted in a two-touchdown deadlock.

Dons Have Edge

Although its superiority was hidden, Santa Ana outgained the invaders, 321 yards to 176, and rolled up 14 first downs to 7. The Dons tried the astounding number of 41 passes, and completed 16 of them for a net gain of 235.

Earl (Fuzz) Merritt's blue and white Sageshens, spark-plugged by Halfback Charley Longacre, who was the shining light of the evening, figured in only one genuine drive to the Santa Ana goal. Their other counters came on so-called flukes—a pass interception by Bill Tweedie, Pomona's sub quarter, and a woefully 10-yard punt by the Dons.

Santa Ana, holding up exceptionally well against the four-year collegians, spoiled Pomona's plans for a white-washing late in the fourth period when Oliver McCarter, safety, passed 19 yards to End Jack Wilson, who caught the ball across the goal. The conversion was missed.

Pomona Scores Early
Longacre, the sweetest long-distance passer ever seen at the bowl, paced the Pomonans to their first touchdown a few minutes after the game began. From his own 19, after recovering a fumble, he passed 26 yards to Capt. John Kinnear, quarter, to the 45, and then unleashed another long one to Kinnear on Santa Ana's 36. Kinnear reeled off 9 yards, and a pass from Longacre to Bob Spurgeon, ex-Saint at end, was good on the 11. Longacre generated center for 3 yards, and on the next play tossed a short pass to Roland Burbeck, right end, who scampered unopposed over the goal.

A high punt by Longacre was grounded on Santa Ana's 1-yard mark in the second period, and in attempting to escape danger, Fullback Walt Jeffries punned wildly out of bounds on his own 10.

Pomona reached pay dirt in three plays. The Sageshens first tried a pass over the goal. Then Longacre ploughed through right guard for 4 yards, and on third down hit the same spot for 6 yards and a touchdown. His place-kick conversion failed.

Bolton Makes Run
The Dons received a break in the third when one of Joe Herbert's passes bounced from a Pomona back into the arms of tackle Clarence Bolton, who advanced 24 yards before being overtaken on the Sageshens' 3-yard line. Three Santa Ana plungers were halted, and an incomplete pass gave Pomona possession on its 20.

Tweedie made his long run on a pass interception two plays later. Hickman grounded Longacre's punt on Santa Ana's 40. McCarter attempted a short pass which Tweedie ran into, skirled right end and sailed down the sidelines to the goal. Longacre failed to convert for the third time.

The Dons will renew preparations Monday afternoon for the U. S. C. Freshmen here next Friday night.

Bill Wins Again

Little Bill Foote, blond skipper of the Santa Ana Saints, is headed for bigger and better things this fall. Fresh from a 6-0 victory over Orange, his crew bowled over one of the Southern prep favorites, Pasadena Muir-Tech, 7-6, at Poly field yesterday.

COUNTY GRID TEAMS HAVE GOOD DAY

Anaheim's champions, Garden Grove, Huntington Beach and Tustin of the Orange County Prep league all came through their practice football skirmishes in fine style yesterday.

The only major casualty was Whittier's 20-6 romp over Coach "Stew" White's Panthers at Orange.

Anaheim blanked San Bernardino's Redbirds, 13-0, on the loser's grid. A short pass from Halfback Fee to End Beat netted the first touchdown for the Colonels. Their other score resulted from long runs by Halfbacks Tanaka and Fee. Tanaka reeled off one gain for 37 yards, and Fee ran 20 yards to the goal.

John Ward's Garden Grove Argonauts outpointed Laguna Beach, 19-18, in a thriller at Laguna. Miwa, halfback, tallied on a short run in the first. Viusch, a newcomer at quarterback, scored on a run in the second, and a pass from Coates to Reynolds was good for an additional six points in the fourth. Viusch converted the last one. Monell, Garden Grove halfback, dislocated his knee and will be lost indefinitely.

Huntington Beach, touted as one of the teams to beat for the '35 crown, plastered Long Beach Poly's junior varsity 27-0. Fullback "Red" Musoff accounted for three of the touchdowns by Coach "Cap" Sheue's Oiler troops.

Downey staged off defeat at Tustin with a 20-yard pass from Halfback Sechi to Halfback Goodhue in the last few minutes to play. Quarterback Paul Francis went over on a short run for Big Bill Cole's Tilters in the same period.

Fullerton of the Foothill league lost its opener to Chaffey 6-0 at Fullerton, but Don Cruickshank's Indians appeared exceptionally strong in defeat.

Sanger's Is Checked
The slippery Sanger was stopped in his tracks by Santa Ana's alert forwards. So tightly was Pasadena's running attack bottled up that the Terriers were forced to rely on passes all afternoon. Preston Clipper and Brainard Worrell, colored ends, and the accurate passing of Baker forced a combination that threatened many times, but the Saint defense was too clever.

Santa Ana's hefty line of Charles Robinson, center; Joe Crawford and Lyle Moyer, guards; Jim Crowther and Bob Reid, tackles; and Capt. Youel and Harold Short, ends, was a tower of strength. The reserves also came up to expectations.

The Saints travel to Inglewood for another non-league engagement next Friday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28. (AP)—The alcohols, motors and a few scattered specialties accounted for the principal buying in today's brief stock market session. Traders exhibited more than their usual caution and dullness was the rule throughout. Many issues were unchanged. The close was fairly steady. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares. The speculative urge seemingly was dormant so far as the majority of leading equities was concerned. Friendliness for the automotive group was said to have been based on hopes that the new cars, shortly to make their appearance, will attract a sales demand above the ordinary. Shares, up fractionally to a point or so, included Schenley, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, National Distillers, American Commercial, Alcohol, Chrysler, General Motors, Hudson, Ludlum Steel, Westinghouse, Standard Gas, Bullard Co., Coca-Cola, Libbey-Owens, Owens-Illinois, Murray Corp. and Allied Chemical.

The slightly better tone to European news was a helpful influence in the equities division, but brokers remarked that the market apparently has been trying to break away from restraints created by foreign developments.

Grain Market

CHICAGO, Sept. 28. (AP)—Sharply increased arrivals of wheat in Chicago, today, together with a bushel tumble of durum wheat prices at Duluth, did a good deal to make grain values here average lower.
Chicago receipts of corn today totaled 139 cars, against a week ago and 11 the corresponding day a year ago. These figures apparently foreshadowed success of efforts to avert an end-of-the-month price squeeze in the corn market today.
Corn closed 1 1/4-1 1/2 lower yesterday. A bushel, 57 1/2-58 1/2, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to 10 cents advance.

ROOSEVELT GIVES BLUNT WARNING TO WORLD ON NAVAL TREATY

MAKES REPLY TO ENGLISH THREAT

U. S. Will Follow Pact Unless Others Do Not, He Declares

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO THE PACIFIC COAST, Sept. 28. (AP)—President Roosevelt gave blunt notice to the world today that failure to renew the naval limitations treaty, or a renunciation, "could change American policy" to build only to treaty strength.

This was regarded as a direct reply to published reports of an intention by Great Britain to renounce the treaties.

Sea Fleet at S. D.
No official word of Great Britain's step had been received, but Mr. Roosevelt kept on eye on the situation today as he traveled to a demonstration by the United States fleet next Wednesday off San Diego.

The President's brief statement announced "The United States adheres to the Washington and London treaties," and added an intention to follow them unless "other nations exceeded the limits provided by these treaties."

No Comment on South
There was no comment on the refusal of Governor Laffoon of Kentucky and Thomas Rhea, whom he supported against L. B. Chandler, to accept an invitation to board the train.

With Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, and Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, at his elbow, the President is discussing various projects coming before him on the way west.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR F. D. R.'S VISIT
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28. (AP)—Final plans for the visit here of President and Mrs. Roosevelt were being completed today.

The tentative program follows: Arrival of the presidential "Vacation Special" at central station Tuesday morning.
Democratic leaders greet President aboard the train.
A drive through Los Angeles, with the President appearing at Hollywood bowl at 10 a. m. His brief address will follow.

Address of Mrs. Roosevelt at Hollywood bowl at 2:35 p. m. She will speak under the auspices of the California women's committee on the 1935 Mobilization for Human Needs.
Departure of the presidential train for San Diego, probably late Tuesday afternoon.
Comptroller of Currency J. F. T. O'Connor, Mayor Frank L. Shaw, State Senator Culbert Olson and others were meeting today to complete the program. O'Connor took the place of United States Senator William Gibbs McAdoo after the latter was hurt in an automobile accident yesterday.

Admission to the bowl for Mrs. Roosevelt's address will be by ticket. Approximately 30,000 have been mailed. Mrs. Albert Crutcher, chairman of the Los Angeles Community Chest campaign cabinet, said. Persons who desire tickets may obtain them at Community Chest headquarters or branch offices, she added, explaining that if there is room in the bowl after persons with tickets have been seated, others will be allowed to enter without them.

"Now, Puff," says the monkey, "it's true, that I'm bright. But that's not enough—I must be ERUDITE!"
"Oh, stop!" Puffy cries. "Though my mind is quite keen, I don't even know what those great big words MEAN."

1927 FLOOD TOOK ONE LIFE, RUINED ROADS AND LAND

Ten automobiles were swept from the highways by the 1927 flood in Orange county. One life was lost. Four houses were completely destroyed. Valuable citrus land was damaged when an 80,000-gallon oil tank at Atwood was undermined and burst. More than 6300 feet of concrete pavement was washed out and about 1500 feet more was badly undermined.

A summary of the 1927 flood, by Gerald E. Price of the county road department, recalls that the deluge struck almost without warning. Seven and one-half inches of rain fell in three days, Feb. 14, 15 and 16.

"The stream swelled to raging torrent, with the peak runoff occurring on Feb. 16 at 4:30 a. m.," said Mr. Price, who has made detailed studies of Orange county floods.

Four Series Breaks
"Almost simultaneously on Feb. 16 there occurred four serious breaks in the Santa Ana river banks. One failure occurred in the east bank, south of the Chapman street bridge, both banks failed just north of the Talbert bridge, and the fourth was in the west bank about one mile south of the Talbert bridge. An extremely serious break occurred on Feb. 17 in the west bank about a mile

Classes For Adults To Be Held At Lathrop, Willard Buildings

With an enlarged program scheduled, evening high school classes will open in Santa Ana Monday at 7 o'clock at Willard and Lathrop Junior High school buildings.

Attended by more than 3000 students last year, the evening high schools are expected to attract even greater numbers this year. Mrs. Golden Weston, director, said today.

Popular classes have been added on request, qualified instructors have been obtained and interesting schedules outlined.

Although no tuition is charged students, they are asked to furnish their own texts and materials. Fees for special services are collected in some classes.

Since state funds are allocated the school on basis of attendance, continuance of classes is based on attendance, Mrs. Weston said.

HELP IS NEEDED IN T. B. DRIVE

A volunteer army was being recruited here today to work "behind the lines" in the annual Christmas seal campaign against tuberculosis. Mrs. Florence Holmes, field representative for the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association, today issued an appeal for helpers on the task of folding Orange county's quota of 3,400,000 seals to prepare them for mailing.

In accordance with an agreement between the National Tuberculosis association and the American Red Cross, seals are not placed on sale until after Thanksgiving day, but the work of preparing for the campaign is now in progress in room, 602 First National bank building. Returns from the seal sale are used to fight tuberculosis.

The 1935 Christmas seals and posters show an old-fashioned girl posting a Christmas letter at an old-fashioned mail box.

In preparation for the 1935 campaign, Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Edna Hewitt Smith of the Orange County association attended a conference at Mrs. F. D. Hopkins, executive secretary of the National Tuberculosis association, spoke Mrs. Hopkins reported that the national association has set a quota for this year that is 11 percent higher than that of 1934. She said all western states she had visited seemed confident of reaching this mark.

PEACE IN SOFT COAL INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (AP)—A peace pact that spells the end of the nation's soft coal strike in all but four producing districts was in effect today. The miners will go back to work next Tuesday, after being out since Monday morning.

Union leaders and operators agreed upon a new wage contract giving the miners increases in pay for virtually all types of work. The contract, replacing one which originally expired last April 1, will extend until April 1, 1937. The increase granted was estimated by union officials to represent $90,000,000 fatter pay during the year and a half the contract runs.

Joe Does Have His Moments

From all indications, there wasn't much to worry Joe Louis before or during his fight with Max Baer, but the Detroit boy did show some emotion when he returned to an apartment on Harlem's "Sugar Hill" after the bout to greet his bride of a few hours. 'YOU KNOCKERS GET OUT'

That's How Pioneers Acted

Right now most everybody in Orange county is thinking water. Way back into the early history of Orange county—or rather the territory then known only to the padres and the Mexicans—irrigation was practiced. Soon afterward the white man found he could use water from the Santa Ana. Then began the great drama which has extended to the present. The Journal in a series of articles, will picture the early day struggles, the successes and failures, that marked man's effort to make the desert bloom.—Editor.

The pioneers who built the early irrigation ditches were men of vision and confidence in the future. They had to be to go into a land that looked to them almost like a desert, spend time, money and labor in bringing water to their property.

J. E. Parker of Orange was one of the men who built the first ditch bringing water to Orange from the Santa Ana river, in 1871.

"The land was covered with sage brush and cactus," he recalled today. "It was assessed at 50 cents an acre and a lot of it at less than

"Oh, we had the whiners and knockers then, too. They called a meeting in the Orange plaza. They had drifted in from no one knows where. They were long on talk but short on work. A bunch came down from the ditch to see and hear them talk. My, how they knocked the men building the ditch! They said they were going to bond the ditch and the bonds would ruin the country."

"After they had talked for an hour, we called on Mr. Guthrie, one of the head men of the ditch crowd, and a land owner. He asked them if they had anything more to say. They did not.

"Well, I just have this to say to you whiners and knockers," Mr. Guthrie replied. "Not one of you work on the ditch. Not one of you put up one cent. You knockers are nothing new. Noah had them in his day and I hope the same thing that happened to them happens to you. Now get out!"

"And they got. Those early settlers had a way with them!"

TEAPOT TATTLE

By ELLEN SNEBLEY

If you were past 60 and could afford to retire, what would you do?

My idea probably would run to lace-edged caps, soft chairs and good books to read.

That's not the choice of one well-loved and respected Santa Ananese, though.

I refer to Mrs. Belle Lawrence, who celebrated her sixtieth birthday anniversary two years ago, and yet who whizzes through each successive day, managing her 11 apartments and running a nursing home.

Mrs. Lawrence has made splendid use of her practical nursing's training of years ago . . . she made a happy home for her children, now grown, who are George and Arthur Lawrence, Mrs. Earl Ladd and Mrs. Jac De Groot of Santa Ana, Mrs. Edgar Leutwiler of La Habra, and Mrs. Ruth Clarkson of Pasadena.

As her children grew up and came to have homes of their own, they waited yearly for their mother to give up her active business life and spend her afternoons calling on them with her sewing bag to chat and mend and otherwise be "grandmotherly." They're still waiting.

Mrs. Lawrence has a life as she is now, serving and working, to stop and fold her hands.

"TODAY WE TOAST" Mrs. Lawrence, who has found the joy of increasing, rather than decreasing, the scope of her life experience with the passing of the years. We think Walter Pitkin, whose "Life Begins at Forty" is a classic among books of its type, would be proud to know the busy Santa Ananese.

Remember when Orange county's university women were rustling round with scissors and paste-pot, clipping and pasting articles from the various county newspapers, to submit in the A. A. U. W.'s part of the Carnegie survey on adult education?

Thereby hangs a grand tribute to The Journal which The Tattler joys in sharing with you.

At the League of Women Voters meeting "to-day" I sat next to Mrs. Mathew W. Graham of Santa Monica, who is prominent in both organizations. She headed the state in the A. A. U. W. survey.

Speaking of the Southland newspaper survey, she said: "The Journal barely got into the survey, it was so new at the time; but we did include and judge you with other southern California papers."

The Journal in relation to other papers had a very good proportion of very good international news. If it lives up to the standard it set on international news, it should be very valuable to Orange county.

Thank you, Mrs. Graham!

Seen here'n there: Caro Cogan knitting busily on a deep blue suit for winter . . . Mrs. Edith Cloyes talking with a friend, in her usual melodious low tones . . . two local gals discussing Clarence Sprague's recent appointment . . . Madge Sawyer concluding by some mathematical juggling that it'll be 80 more days until her Jack comes home . . . Katie Harbert and Van Pomeroy smiling at each other, as usual . . . "Ginnie" Swegles unwrapping box after box of ivory gardenias from her latest admirer . . . and Loretta Spangler licking stamps to put on Junior Ebells News Letters.

SHE'S JUNE BRIDE

Mrs. Tarver, Jr. Is Newcomer to City

Mrs. Ben Tarver, Jr., (above), who before her recently announced June wedding was Miss Charlene Gordon of Los Angeles, is an attractive newcomer to Santa Ana.

She and her husband are establishing their new home at 1321 North Flower street. Mr. Tarver is the son of the Ben T. Tarvers of 2510 Valencia street.

Thetas both had shower parties Thursday evening—only the Sigma Tau Psi is a jump ahead of the Sigma Thetas . . . theirs was a stork shower.

If you have an antique moustache cup, an ostrich feather box or a tortoise shell finger ring you treasure, keep it out of sight! Scavengers will get it, if you don't look out.

I s'pose I don't need to explain that the scavenger is a treasure-hunter by a newer name, sent out to a party with a list of items to be begged, borrowed or . . . borrowed in a given amount of time.

One lasting memory of Wilma Silver's hunt last week-end was the indignation of Oscar Hansen, Harriet Gruettner, Joe Smith and Loretta Spangler, who received only a kind word for their skill in running down all scavenger items! Otherwise the party was a thorough-going success.

Then the next evening at Laguna Beach, friends of Doris and Cecil Suddaby stormed their adorable new home in the village for a housewarming party which wound up as a scavenger hunt . . . three red hairs and the like being in great demand . . . speaking of the Suddaby home, you should see its trim blue and white tile kitchen. The knotty pine beams etched with anchors, the lampshades painted with Laguna scenes, and the cunning round blue chair arrangement for the dining room table! Doris (Mrs. Bruce) Vegely brought home a Laguna scene done in oils, hunt prize of the evening.

TODAY'S BIG WORRY: What pretty little local lass should watch her step, or she'll two-time her faithful swain once too often and be left high and dry?

Thinking back on the Kappas' Palomar party . . . Ethel (Mrs. Joe) Irwin was the life of the evening. And nearly summoned enough nerve to ask Pinky Tomlin (present as a guest) to sing "The Object of My Affections" . . . Jeanette Lewis looked especially pretty with her pink frilly collar accenting the black of her sports frock . . . and Kappa President David Hill was up and down all evening playing the cordial host.

Who besides Doris Rohrbacher (hers from Orville Schuhardt) and Georgina Irvin (hers from Ray Cartwright) is wearing a sparkling new diamond ring? Anyway, two's quite a few.

We spoke last week of the 'Chat'n' Sea' musical revue now on at the Pasadena Community Playhouse. Maxine and Diana Lewis, Lois January and other stars of stage and screen are in the show.

With which, good-bye until next week.

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

What particular benefit have you derived from membership in the League of Women Voters?

Mrs. A. Lagasse: I have come into closer contact with local, state and national governmental workings, and become better informed on the various matters which appear on the ballot from time to time.

Mrs. Carrie Watson: I have gained many things in the line of being able to understand the different bills brought up in the legislature, and being able to vote more intelligently—which is surely a great need at the present time.

Mr. C. C. Oakes: I keep in touch with the questions of the day and it helps me a great deal to hear them all discussed intelligently and informatively.

BARBARA MARKEL GUEST OF HONOR AT GAY PARTY

It was a happy, thrilling day yesterday for young Barbara Lee Markel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ogden Markel, 1321 Cypress avenue, for it was her eighth birthday anniversary and held for her a surprise party given in the afternoon at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Marie Lieberman, 612 French street.

Barbara Lee had been told there'd be only relatives and no playmates at her party, but when she entered her grandmother's home it was to the strains of "Happy Birthday to You," lustily sung by all her best friends.

The rainbow theme chosen for the celebration was seen in a crepe-paper arch between the living and dining rooms, and in the dining room a canopy of streamers fell from the amber glass chandelier to a long table centered with yellow zinnias.

Barbara Baker, granddaughter of W. D. Baker, brought a large pink and white, flower-iced birthday cake as her gift to Barbara Lee. Ice cream, candies from individual rainbow-tinted pottery dishes, constituted the menu. Rainbow placecards were also used.

Barbara Lee, who sat at the head of the table, wore a pink and blue frock and a fluffy pink bow in her light blond curls. Her blue eyes sparkled, as did the similar blue eyes of her young twin sisters, Joyce Ruth and Louise Anne, who wore pink and blue print frocks and sat on either side of her. Her brother, Jules, Jr., sat at the other end of the table. All the guests wore party hats and were given rainbow balloons on long sticks.

See Motion Pictures
Mrs. Markel and Barbara's aunts, Misses Agnes and Gretchen Lieberman, did the hosting at the party.

After they'd eaten, the young guests seated themselves on the living room floor and Miss Laurie Hamill showed them motion pictures taken of children at school and at other parties.

Guests were Marjorie Ball, Agnes and Marjorie Kellett, Marilyn Hamill, Mary Bell Ladd, Marian Walker, Barbara Baker, Marilyn Wetzel and the four Markel children.

BABES FROLIC IN DOLBEE GARDEN AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

The chatter of baby voices made music in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dolbee's home, 2023 North Main street, Thursday afternoon when Barbara Louise Dolbee, their young daughter, was feted with a party celebrating her second birthday anniversary.

The children played with colored balloons, and later were taken into the home to sit at a large table gay with baby asters in pastel shades, pink candles in silver bases, and a big white birthday cake topped by two pink tapers.

Barbara Louise blew out the flames on her candles, and her cake was served with ices and pink bonbons. Mesdames John McKittick and J. D. McDonald assisted with the hosting.

Old-Fashioned Moralists Take the Stand in Condemnation of Anne Today

By MARY STODDARD

And still they come!

Letters about Anne and her young friend, whom she advised in these columns not so long ago. Everything that one side of the question holds sacred is violated by Anne's charges, while the other side thinks Anne's abusers are smug prigs that have no place in the modern age, but belonged back with their grandmothers and petticoats. The odds are against Anne in today's mail.

She's A Beer-Drinker

Dear Miss Stoddard: I cannot help but reply to Anne's letter. Such women are a disgrace to womanhood. I judge from her letter she is nothing more than a sniveling, smoking, beer-drinking (sport), so what can we expect from her world but such creatures? Their class has been with us since time immortal and I guess we will have to tolerate them until the end.

Anne says there is not a more discriminating man than her husband. I wonder! Poor deluded creature, she must surely pull the wool over his eyes.

Take yourself to task, Anne, and ask yourself why you are one of the most repulsive persons known to our sex.

ANNE NO TWO.

Anne's The Smug One

Dear Miss Stoddard: Anne, the young married woman, speaks of the "smug" girls who air their views through your columns and the complaints they make. It seems that Anne is smug, too. I suppose her husband is "very discriminate," or could she be fooling herself?

She reads Shakespeare. Maybe she reads Burns, and if so, she remembers the smug lady with a louse crawling on her bonnet, or something.

There is nothing in the Ten Commandments about smoking. I cannot find a line, either, saying that non-smokers are less virtuous, or less understanding of music.

The temperate wife is a risk, as even Anne hints. An intemperate husband is a sad thing, but an intemperate wife is a tragedy. Don't you think so, Anne?

England Theme For Travel Section

"Merrie England," its rural countryside and its inns, will be the theme of programs in Santa Ana Ebells third travel section this year, and yesterday at the section's opening meeting in the clubhouse, provided material for two interesting talks by section members.

Mesdames J. B. Kester and A. Thorndike were hostesses for the luncheon served early in the day at small tables gay with bouquets and flower placecards. Mrs. F. P. Nicky, section leader, conducted a brief business session.

Mrs. C. P. Boyer, program chairman, introduced Mrs. W. P. Read, who reviewed the "Physical Aspects of England." She mentioned the far-reaching influence of England, whose territory no more than equals that of the state of Pennsylvania.

Miss Lucy Carter took the clubwomen with her in retrospect from the south to the north of England and back again, describing to them the quaint old inns she saw, and the picturesque appearance of the lanes and fields.

Mrs. S. A. Jones, who spent the summer in world-traveling, told briefly of her experiences.

The two members, Mrs. Rola Hays and Mrs. F. C. Buchtel, were welcomed into the section.

Mrs. G. C. Jeffery was a guest.

Others present were Mesdames P. A. Robinson, L. E. Strong, M. C. Williams, F. L. Andrews, G. W. Canter, C. A. Westgate, A. N. Cox, M. C. Ford, A. M. Gardner, M. M. Holmes, W. W. Hoy, W. W. Mrs. Jennie Crawford read "School Day Reminiscences." Mrs. Bohlander read an essay, "Philosophizing."

"As the Twig Is Bent" was the title of Mrs. Henry Guthrie's contribution. Mrs. Hugh Gerrard read "Ups and Downs," and Mrs. J. F. Jacoby, a guest, gave "A Toast to My Friends."

Mrs. Bond served tea, cakes and ices at a pink-appointed table. Mrs. Gerrard will entertain the group Oct. 24 at the home on Victoria drive.

Saving Our Natural Resources for the Use and Benefit of the Entire Public Is One of the Objectives of the American Government

A PLAIN STATEMENT TO ORANGE COUNTY CITIZENS:

The Flood Control and Water Conservation program, upon which you voters will ballot next Friday, Oct. 4, is an effort to preserve our natural resources in cooperation with the State and National governments.

The United States Government has allotted $6,374,000 as an outright gift to aid worth-while projects and to relieve the unemployment situation by providing steady jobs.

The State of California, through the State Highway Department, is assisting by paying for a new highway around the Prado reservoir site, saving county taxpayers some $136,000.

The necessity and the main features of the program have been investigated and approved by eight of the best qualified consulting engineers in the country, including the late G. A. Elliott, A. J. Wiley, Charles Paul, F. C. Hermann, Paul Bailey, B. A. Etcheverry, Thomas H. Means, and A. Kempkey.

Further proof that the engineering plan is sound, and suited to the needs of Orange county, is the fact that the project has been checked and approved by the State Planning Commission, the State Engineering Department, the PWA, the WPA, and the United States Army Engineers at Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Washington.

Plans for the present program were undertaken at the insistent demand of Orange county citizens who realized the menace of a diminishing water supply and the danger from floods such as that of 1916, and represents ten years of intensive study by the best engineers it was possible to obtain, in addition to the several departments of the state and national governments.

It is a complete, county-wide plan covering all needed works for flood protection and the conservation of storm waters, and is fair to all areas. The county-wide plan was evolved after the expenditure of more than a million dollars by local districts had proved ineffectual.

The Federal government is anxious to assist us, partly to provide re-employment, partly to stimulate business activity, partly to protect and make possible the continuance of more than 5 million dollars worth of Federal Farm Loans in this county, and partly to protect its Home Loans and other investments here.

The State government is anxious for flood control in order to protect its investment of several million dollars here in highways, bridges, etc.

Orange county taxpayers in large numbers are supporting the program as a means of protecting themselves from flood disasters, as the most feasible method of acquiring new water supplies for our underground basin which is rapidly being depleted, and as a means of maintaining and increasing property values and providing for future growth and prosperity.

It is truly a government program—county, state, and nation—designed to serve ALL the people and preserve our natural resources for public use and benefit.

This Orange county water and flood control project, it is important to note, was approved by the National Resources Board of the United States government early this year as ranking next to the Central Valley water project in importance in the state of California.

Study the charts on this page. They tell a graphic story of dangerously-low water tables, of pumping water for city and ranch use from near sea level and below, of the ABSOLUTE NECESSITY of action before the water gives out or before intrusion of ocean water into our basin. Water levels throughout Orange county have dropped 100 feet in the past 12 years, and this drop, averaging eight and one-third feet annually, cannot be safely allowed to continue.

The conservation of storm waters, now wasted, appears to be the most feasible, the most logical, and the most economical step to take in solving our water problems.

The facts of our threatening water shortage are all around us. The records are open to everyone, to verify or disprove. GET THE FACTS AS THEY EXIST.

There is a real threat of water shortage, and the abandonment of several thousand acres of irrigated lands back into dry farming, as proven by many well records.

There is real danger of flood damage and death, as proven by records of the past, and the fact that the entire Santa Ana valley is an alluvial plain built up by deposits from the Santa Ana river as it many times changed its course over this now well-populated valley in years gone by.

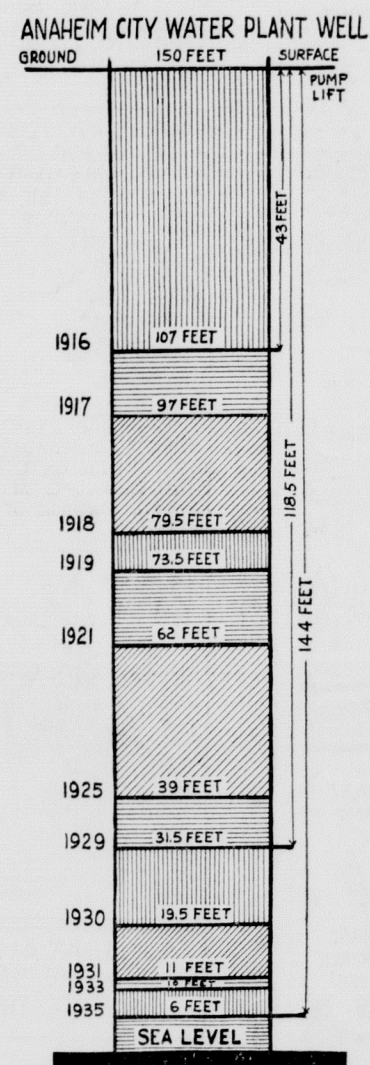

Facts and intelligent judgment, with the best interests of the future Orange county at heart, should dictate your vote at next Friday's election.

Yours truly,

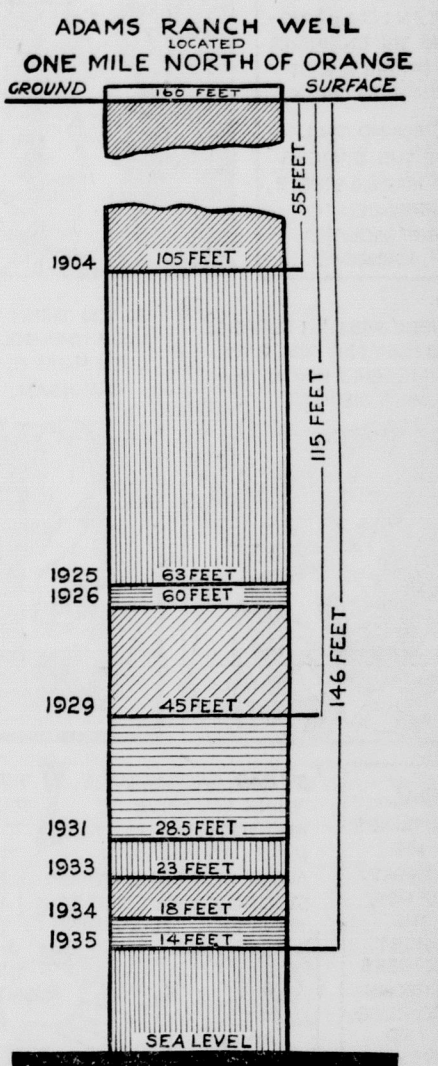

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE ORANGE COUNTY FLOOD CONTROL DISTRICT.

COFFING VIEWS NEW DODGES

L. D. Coffing and his sales organization have just returned from inspecting the new 1936 Dodge cars at the season's first meeting of Dodge dealers at the Biltmore hotel in Los Angeles.

"These new '36 Dodges will certainly amaze the motoring world," Mr. Coffing exclaimed. "I wish I could give details but we are pledged to secrecy. However, I can state that their beautiful lines are more streamlined without being radical. Economy, widely recognized as a dominant characteristic of Dodge, will be even more pronounced, while comfort and safety have been provided for in even greater degree."

Mr. Coffing quoted W. A. Purvis, Dodge assistant general sales manager, as stating that Dodge's gain in sales for the first eight months of 1935 over the corresponding period of 1934 is 90 per cent. Deliveries of Dodge passenger cars rose from 67,463 for the first eight months of 1934 to 132,106 in the January-August, 1935, period.

"Today economic conditions are such that we have every reason to look forward to an even more prosperous season," the speaker explained. "Wherever we turn, we see evidence of advancing prosperity. In many lines business is right now at its highest since the decline of 1926."

'SONS' LEAVE FOR EXHIBITION AT SAN DIEGO FAIR

To participate in Cabrillo day ceremonies at the San Diego fair, a delegation from the Native Sons of the Golden West in Santa Ana left today for the exposition.

Ivan Harper, past president, was chairman of the reception committee which awaited the visit this morning of the grand officers at the K. of P. hall, on their way to the ceremonies.

Carl Schroeder, president, and Mrs. Schroeder, Dr. C. E. Price and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hiskey were among those who left early today to attend the rites. Candidates from parlors throughout Southern California will be initiated tonight at ceremonies under direction of the San Diego parlor.

To Senator McAdoo:

Six stitches are quite a few, but I guess your nose can take 'em.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Upton Sinclair:

I see where you were arrested yesterday in Ventura for speeding through a 25-mile zone. Those spurts of yours don't seem to get you very far, Upton.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Glenn Martin:

The old home town was glad to have you back this week and to hear you talk, even though you did prefer to talk about men's clothes styles rather than airplane building.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Herbert Rankin:

Those were lovely ladies performing at your style show Thursday. The gowns were good-looking, too. The second floor of your store, since the modernizing job was completed, is truly one of Santa Ana's show places.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To the California Republican Booster Club:

You will have to do more than organize a "Merriam-for-President" club to win the 1936 battle. Your circular asked for a copy of The Journal's editorial on the governor's candidacy. Well, the editor tells me this is it.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Ralph Smedley:

Thanks to the instruction your Toastmasters' club has provided in public speaking, Santa Ana has several high-powered speakers to use during the forthcoming Community Chest drive. I have heard some of them in operation, and you should be proud.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To a Woman Driver:

Yesterday, about noon, I saw you chatting with a friend at Fifth and Main streets. You had stopped on the east side of Main and to talk to your friend, you had double-parked. Finally, after much honking of horns, you drove on. Did you know you blocked traffic for four ways and that it was several minutes before the tangle was straightened out?

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Community Chest Workers:

Next week will be a period of intensive preparation on your part, for the big drive that starts October 6. I know the community will accept you as it should because yours is unselfish labor with all thought of personal profit cast aside. Before the end of the drive you likely will find out a good deal about human nature that you don't know now; you will also get a pretty fair idea of who is a friend of Santa Ana and who is not.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To C. Roy Browning:

I was just a little amused the other night to hear you make a speech at San Clemente and very carefully explain you were speaking for yourself in opposition to the flood control bonds instead of the James Irvine interests by whom you are employed. Really, it didn't seem necessary to say you were not representing Mr. Irvine. Mr. Irvine couldn't be against the bonds. Many will remember he pledged himself when he defeated the last water bond issue for a dam at the lower Prado, to support a dam at the upper Prado site should one be proposed there. That's the site under consideration now and, as a speaker recalled recently, the word of an Irvine always is good.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Police Chief Floyd Howard:

Posies to you for one of the smartest traffic-enforcement ideas I have observed this year. The average man is impressed when he takes an oath and when he pledges himself to obey traffic laws, it should be effective. And your announcement that you will have your police cars drive anybody home who doesn't feel able to drive his own car, is positively unique. I know it is made in good faith too, because I know something of your ideas about police work, one of which is that the police officer's first duty is to prevent crime and that he is entitled to more credit when he accomplishes that than he is for a mere record of arrests.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Vern Carpenter:

I was gratified to see you this week as you rolled about town in your new gasoline-propelled wheel chair. It was a fine present from the people of Santa Ana and I can just imagine how grateful you are to them. I understand that after the chair was paid for in full there was $24.45 left in the fund and that a portion of this is to be used to pay for such alterations as you found necessary to make the chair fit your needs. What remains, I am told, is being deposited to your credit at a local service station so you may have gasoline to operate the chair. We are glad to know that as the pleasant autumn days come on, you may be outside with the rest of us. It was a good turn on the part of Santa Ana and shows a fine spirit of solicitude to one who is less fortunate. Congratulations!

COL. V. ORANGE.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Monday as a washday has done a complete fade-out in American family life.

For many it was a weekly innovation, a day of diet on white bean soup. The whole house was a pungent with the soapy-sudsy smell of yellow laundry soap. A sad aroma, like ly-sol in a poor-house.

Usually the wash-day woman was colored and brought with her two or three pickaninies who joined us at play. Social barriers were down on wash day. Our wash-woman got 75 cents a day and a noon dinner. Her name was Hannah and her husband Joe was a shiftless odd job man.

Hannah took ten minutes out after dinner to sit under the walnut tree in the back yard and puff at her penny clay pipe. Joe came for her at dusk to escort her home and claim a major portion of her earnings. And next day he would be sleeping off his jag on freight boxes along the levee.

I thought of wash-day today because of a scrawl from Hannah on note-paper. "It's the 15th November. I don't wash out any more but I does my own. I got me two more men since Joe was took, both just as wuthless as he were. Both is gone too and I see all alone."

There was a temperance ditty Hannah used to croon over her tub, innumerable verses but there's one I recall:

But now I leave my wine and gin,
A life of temperance to begin,
Because I know it is a sin
To drink when out a-sleighing!

An occasional manicure maid is a carry-over chatterbox from gay Patee—deserter from a transatlantic liner barber shop. Her especial boy friend is a darkly eyed, tanned, even to a silver bracelet, in chair No. 3. Today she whispered with a furtive nod toward him: "Make a leedle fuss over me. He is what you call jealous today." I turned on my best soul-yearning gaze, then glanced his way and I'll be dogged if he wasn't honing a razor. You should have seen me take a doze for the rest of the slick-up. Add careers: Stoozing in a barbershop romance.

Post card from a tiny outpost in South Africa: "Kin... Ring... Will... There is a row who can't be replaced. It makes even this lonely jungle lonelier."

Those feebly lit—save for the glittering outside sign—Chinese restaurants are continued phenomena in successful catering. Few fail and a number have been running for years. We dined in one in the sooty Chelsea area the other evening, the food was palatable enough but nothing to bring one back. An indifferent orchestra, save for a crouching, and I suspect reefer-smoking pianist, sea-sawed the usual jazzieries. The place was so dark the waiter provided a pocket flash for inspecting the menus. Every couple dined in latticed booths and I noticed the waiter knocked before entering. Perhaps that's the trick!

Romantic novels make quick folk who toddle out for a quick drug store counter bite of toast and a gulp of coffee in the morning feel terrible sissies. In one of the gigantic prosperities of E. R. Edisson last night I read: "He halted to bait his horse and breakfast at the moated house; mutton pies, tripe, cheese and garlic, and thick black beer." What no chine of beef!

A hearty breakfast is largely a matter of temptation. I have seen the pincheest nibblers gorge when they faced the savory display of a buffet. At the Amstel in Amsterdam one morning I phoned for breakfast, expecting the customary continental petit dejeuner. Instead the waiter brought what I learned was a typical Dutch breakfast with several varieties of cheese and sliced sausage and a tottering stack of pumpnickel. Every dish went back as clean as a hound's tooth.

Two grotesquely pantalooned nippers were salvaging old papers from a refuse bin last evening. They explained, in answer to my query and between wet nosed sniffs, they got 5 cents for a hundred. The larger tyke told proudly he had made 96 cents, the littlest had garnered 50 cents. I asked the lads what they did with their money. The elder, squirming a bare big toe against the cool sidewalk and with head down, murmured: "Our mother sometimes needs things."

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(This is the second of a series of political diagnoses gauging the temper of country as the President travels west.—Editor's note.)

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28.—The political sand dunes have been shifting here in recent months, but the President will find that this mule-state of the midwest probably has undergone little net change in its support of his New Deal, despite that shifting.

Folks grouse and grumble, complain about waste and expense. But when you pin them down, the majority admit that, barring some political hara-kari by the administration between now and November, 1936, they will mark an X in the Roosevelt column and he will carry the state by as large a majority as in 1932.

All this despite the fact that the state Democratic machine is enjoying anything but salubrious sailing.

Since it took over state control from the Republicans several years back, things have been going from bad to worse. There was one shooting scrape among Democratic leaders. There has been endless internal discussion.

But that makes little difference to the national picture. Missouri long ago learned the art of shearing a ballot down the middle. For a whole decade it kept the Republican state machine in power, simultaneously sending Democratic Jim Reed to the senate.

Splitting is no bogie to the Missouri voter. He loves it. And if he has to split them again in 1936 it won't make the slightest difference.

JIM REED
OF COURSE, Roosevelt always has that vitriolic old veteran, Jim Reed, to contend with. Missouri has an abiding affection for Jim and his satanic tongue. And in recent months that tongue probably has spat more venom at the New Deal than any other in the midwest.

But Missouri has got into the habit of discounting the senator's rancor. It remembers that Jim is still smarting over the treatment his new wife, dressmaker Nell Donnelly, got from the NRA on the manufacture of her dresses.

Also there is Bennett Champ Clark, a young senator with an old tradition of which Missouri is proud, who pays allegiance to Roosevelt.

"After all," folks argue, "Clark is an active figure in politics and knows what is going on. He is for Roosevelt. But Jim Reed, great as he may have been, is out of the picture."

PATIENCE
NONE of this, however, gets down to the real reason why people out this way still are for Roosevelt. Perhaps that reason can be summarized in the words of a grocery clerk who, after a critical analysis of the President's spending program and the waste of relief funds, concluded: "But I'll say this—he certainly has tried hard. And a lot of what he's done has helped. After all, a man can't be right all the time. Anyway, who have the Republicans got to offer that's any better?" This is quite a general expression. There is a feeling that Roosevelt and his New Deal must be given more time. There is much criticism of the President's judg-

The Inter Se met yesterday afternoon with Miss Lida Crookshank on French street. Sewing and conversation passed the time pleasantly, after which refreshments were served.

Miss Edith Silkworth will open her class in ballroom dancing Friday at 7:30 o'clock, followed by an informal hop beginning at 9 o'clock.

H. T. Rutherford, H. D. Connell and J. W. Tibbs drove to Los Angeles today by auto on business connected with the carnival auto races.

"It's a racket," she opined, "nothing in the world but a racket. I know some of the biggest men in politics here, and in Illinois and in Indiana."

"So let's be frank. The pretense is that we must protect the businessmen all along the line will make more money, and can afford to pay their workers more money."

"That's the theory, isn't it? Well, here's why it's a racket: 'The prices have all gone up. Way up. The businessmen are making their profits. But do they pay higher wages? You bet they don't. It's $3 a week for waiting on table in a restaurant. It's $5 a week for shop girls, and maybe as high as $8 for factory jobs where you work sometimes 12 hours a day.'

"Who can live on that? I voted for Roosevelt last time, but I won't do it again."

BUSINESS OPPOSITION
JUST as much bitterness, though for opposite reasons, was expressed by a bank president.

"Business," he said, "is destroyed. We're still operating, but there's no profit."

"The great financial minds who have had a lifetime of experience, are spurned. The administration no longer pays any attention to them."

"Along with it we have this ruinous orgy of spending, in which money is being thrown away, given away, tossed away, won't less ventures. Naturally I resent it. It's the little money I earn by hard work is confiscated in taxes to give to people who won't work even if you give them a job."

That is the other side of the picture—a side which is expressed with such vehemence that it gives the impression at first of being the voice of the majority. But it is not. Underneath, the people of Missouri, for the most part, are ready to give Roosevelt more time.

Lemon Juice

Howdy, folks! This is the season of the year when you discover that the strange smell in your basement is just the 57 yards of kelp your small boy brought home from the bathing beach this summer.

Cuthbert, the office boy, couldn't comb his hair this morning. The pencil mark on his forehead for locating the beginning of the part got erased during the night.

LOCAL MAN ORIGINAL
Ambrose J. Soapbuds, prominent Santa Ana figure, particularly about the waist line, has shown startling originality in the beer-vending business. Mr. Soapbuds is one of the few men in Orange county to erect a beer tavern that was not an imitation log cabin.

"Drowning," declares a local medical expert, "is probably the easiest of all deaths." However, our fancy has toyed lately with the notion of smothering in an open watermelon.

BACK TO NEWPORT BEACH
If I had the wings of an angel, Back to my vacation I'd fly, I'd troll for sea bass forever, Nor quit it until I did die!

One thing that the AAA crop reduction program won't affect very seriously is this winter's crop of wild oats.

EVERYDAY BALONEY
"I can quit smoking cigarettes any time I feel like it."

When they look at the present conditions in politics and business, it's no wonder the recent college graduates feel that they could run the world better than it's being run.

YE DIARY

This morning, journeying by train to the city, I do fall a-playing a low, raffish game called rummie; and do lose five straight games, which doth cause me to cry out against card-playing as a foul, fiendish pastime, to be scorned and abominated by all right-thinking citizens; but do change my mind when I do win back the shilling I did lose, and indeed it be a faire, jollie amusement.

Remarkable Remarks

The real way to prevent war is to make life better, so much better that its security will be too precious to lose, so that people will not be willing to have war for the sake of better business.—Pearl S. Buck, author.

Italy loves peace. She wants peace with justice and is taking all measures to see that the justice part of her demands is not overlooked.—Mussolini.

In sudden need the forces of democracy may seem to scatter and evaporate, but its walls of resolution are deep and sure and out of them pours force again.—Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox, president, Union college.

We're what you might call the poor man's Ziegfeld.—Morton Minsky, New York burlesque show producer.

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

America's Most Important Issue
TWO concepts of government are rapidly approaching a showdown in the world today. One is less than three hundred years from its birth. It was born in the American wilderness, nurtured in fierce combat with elemental things. It discounts such man-made factors as wealth, position and accident of social and racial standing. It stands for equality of opportunity, throwing each person on his own resources, to rise or fall as his abilities and merit may decide.

Under this notion government is not so noticeably important in the individual's life. Defense against external aggression, maintenance of law and order, and the general control of certain large functions constitute its business. The individual has little contact with it.

UNTIL within very recent years common folks had not much concern about the federal government. The mail service, certain rather dubious weather reports, the flag flying over a building here and there—these were a few tangible evidences that the Washington government was at work. But of intimate contact there was almost none. It was far away, something for national pride but nothing to cause immediate concern.

ANOTHER notion, the very opposite of the first, is stalking through the world today, and is sweeping into American life. It is an ancient concept of government, as old as organized society itself. It laid the basis for every despotism which has afflicted the race. It holds that the government itself is sacred, something which leans for support upon the

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Interesting to watch pedestrians view either with alarm or indifference ladders leaned against business buildings. Superstition decides the conduct of the pedestrian. Some will pass around, others pass under, and not a few turn back and use another street. What difference an inanimate ladder has on individual performance is not quite clear to me, but if it starts to fall and hits you on the head—that's different.

Representative for a cigarette firm places a display in The Journal's front window, and the sign reads something like walking a mile for one, but when I get there it was another case of Mother Hubbard.

G. T. H. Watts is home from the Paso Robles section and brings to this department a small sack of almonds, which he declares represents the complete harvest for this season. I want to thank him for looking after the crop, but do not appreciate his calling my attention to it. That investment so far has not improved my bank account, nor brought any comfort to its owner, and while it may not be polite, if Watts was here right now, I could with propriety and determination say to him: G. T. H.

Motorcycle Officers Lloyd Groover and Ernie Sawyer try out my nervous system. Call to make inquiry as to my location. I am out, but in before they leave the office. The appearance of two uniformed officers inquiring for one shrimp brings up the eyelashes and arouses an inquiry as to "what's the little devil been up to now?" So when Ernie and Lloyd depart without my company the office force is disappointed because it looked like a good chance to get rid of me, but the real reason was I sent 'em back for reinforcements.

Renewed activity in the Fulton oil fields is reported, but as far I have read nothing about it in Howard Irwin's advertisement. So far as I am concerned, it is official until it gets Howard o.k.

Why don't those fellows who get in trouble and then come to the newspapers for a suppression of the incident, because they "do not want to know it," think about another before they get into trouble? Mother is the best safety anchor in the world, but she has at the same time been used as the "front" for more mischievous boys to hide behind than a y.o. other screen in the world.

That inquiry Frank Henderson made about my lunch will be all right for any day next week, but when he ventured the inquiry for last Friday it was irrelevant, incompetent and immaterial. It wouldn't have been so humiliating if Dr. Rowland had not overheard the remark. I didn't like the way he laughed when Henderson got the news that the noon day lunch had been provided for. So many references have been made in this column about food that a certain ladies' aid society appointed a committee to investigate. They are either afraid I will starve to death, or won't.

Someone always taking the joy out of life. Jim Randel calls attention to Elks that there are 13 steps from the sidewalk to the main entrance, and now there's a clamor for elevator service.

One of my friends who has been at a beach resort during the summer season has returned to Santa Ana for the winter hibernation. What he said about beach business was more illuminating than profitable. My friends who have a business at the beach, and understand the transitory technique of the average sea-side patron, rather enjoy the game. They make it an all-year stay. There is something alluring about the seashore, but it's usually encased in a bathing suit. Maybe I better talk to my young friend. He may be overlooking an important item in bathing suits.

One of the Epic speakers at a recent meeting said that he was for the "program as a whole." Now there's an idea.

Case of questionable generosity. Ticket for the fireman's ball left on my typewriter. The admission price shows up plainly marked for 50 cents, but the ticket is in free. That's a fine one to pay. Wait a minute! It isn't going to cost me anything. The dance took place last Wednesday.

Claude Van Antwerp comes up from Newport and wants to know why I do not visit the beach. Well, Van, there have been so many invitations nearer home that I haven't been able to get farther than the city limits. However, your courtesy will not be overlooked, nor is it unappreciated. Just as soon as the present calling list is checked I'll be down. Now you be sure and be at home.
